TESTIMONY IN SUPPORT OF HOUSE BILL 644 Amy Blouin, President & CEO Missouri Budget Project 314-518-8867 ablouin@mobudget.org The Missouri Budget Project supports House Bill 644. By implementing the “Wayfair Fix,” allowing the state to capture sales tax for online retail purchases, lawmakers can level the playing field for Missouri’s bricks-and-mortar retailers and their online competitors and provide much-needed resources our local communities need to prosper. The Supreme Court ruling in “South Dakota vs. Wayfair” in 2018 allowed the states to compel online retailers to capture and remit sales taxes due for online retail purchases. Nearly every state has taken advantage of the opportunity provided by the Supreme Court ruling, with the exception only of Missouri and Florida. Over time, consumer habits have been shifting toward online retail. The pandemic accelerated this shift, making it more important than ever to close this outdated loophole in Missouri’s tax structure. House Bill 644 prudently does not spend the state funds resulting from its implementation. This provides confidence that lawmakers will know the exact amount of funding derived from the Wayfair Fix before it is allocated through the annual budget process. Many Wayfair proposals presented to the Legislature over the past five years have attempted to divert potential revenue gains to new tax reductions. The failing of those proposals is that they often overestimate the amount of state revenue that Missouri will gain from Wayfair and would result in significant revenue reductions. The uncertainty in estimating Wayfair gains, as demonstrated in the broad range provided in the fiscal note, is understandable. As more states have implemented policies to collect sales tax from remote sellers, many of the online retail giants have already begun to voluntarily capture and remit Missouri’s state sales tax. Amazon, for instance, comprises about 50% of the online retail market and began remitting state sales tax to Missouri in 2017. Because of this, even the most reliable estimates often overstate the impact of the Wayfair Fix on state revenue. The most recent estimate provided by the U.S. Government Accountability Office (GAO), was produced in 2017, at the same time Amazon was just beginning to implement collections in Missouri. As a result, the GAO estimates of revenue gains, shown below, are likely high compared to what Missouri might expect to collect. State General Revenue (3% rate): $67.32 million State Earmarked Revenue (1.225% rate): $27.45 million Local Revenue (3.805% average rate): $85.23 million TOTAL State and Local (8.03% combined average rate): $180 million The uncertainty of the state tax collections that would result from the Wayfair Fix, demonstrates the importance of not tying the potential for revenue gains with a certain and ongoing expenditure. It’s important to recognize that while the state is likely already capturing a significant portion of the state sales taxes due for online retail purchases, localities may be missing out on local tax revenue. Many online retailers, particularly smaller vendors, aren’t yet able to easily calculate and remit sales tax. Implementing the collections mechanisms described in House Bill 644 will make it easier for those retailers - small independent sellers and large retail giants alike- to calculate and remit sales taxes that are due to the state and localities. With House Bill 644, lawmakers can level the playing field for Missouri businesses, support our local communities, and provide a fiscally responsible path to utilizing any state revenue gains. We encourage your support.

Rep. Wallingford and the Ways and Means Committee - Thank you for reviewing my testimony in support of HB 644. Raised the 7th generation to grow up on my family's Century Farm in Maries County, I now have the honor of leading the economic development organization for Christian County. Show Me Christian County represents the communities of Billings, Clever, Nixa, Fremont Hills, Ozark, Sparta, and Highlandville. With a stark difference between where I started and where I now reside, I bring a unique lens to this issue. The Office of Administration projected Christian County to be the single fastest-growing county in Missouri between the years of 2000 - 2030 with an estimated 142% growth rate. We are now 2/3 into that critical mass and react to the growth to the best of our abilities. Sales tax typically sees a growth of 1-8% per year, historically speaking. Revenues have not kept pace with the rate of growth. As a holistic economic development organization, we are advocating for this issue on behalf of the businesses in Christian County and also our municipal partners. A healthy economy cannot thrive without the citizens, businesses, and public entities working in sync. The existing business sector in Christian County is largely service-based. We are a county of small businesses with 75% employing less than 15 people. In contrast, 75-80% of our 86,000 residents are employed outside our county's boundaries. According to the "Best in Midwest" survey information, Christian County falls in the bottom six counties in the state for the loss of our daytime population. Pair that factor with the accelerating e-commerce trend and the forecast looks dim for the ability to react to the impending growth. While I realize this bill does not directly impact the local economy, I believe the research we've conducted also applies to the necessity for our state to remain competitive with our peers. Wayfair is undoubtedly an equalizer for small businesses with brick & mortar stores. Many of our owners have launched themselves into e-commerce during the pandemic, however they have expressed the desire for customers to still purchase from their physical stores. This allows them the opportunity to build customer loyalty and retention through a personalized approach. Leveling the in-store and online sales tax rates removes one barrier from the in-person experience. Christian County is also home to Creative Audio, an e-commerce distributor in the mobile electronics industry. With a completely different view Owner, Don Fleury is a proponent of implementing Wayfair in Missouri. Fleury has communicated that it is more tedious for their business and third-party compliance firms to exclude Missouri from the online sales tax than it would be for them to include it with their formulas. He has further stated in the Show Me Christian County Government Relations committee that he strongly supports the measure to account for state transportation improvements appropriated through general revenue. He sees first hand the amount of increased traffic, both Over-The-Road, and Less-Than-Load (LTL) carriers, place on our roadway systems. Without a mechanism to replenish the maintenance funds through sales tax collection, the system is unsustainable. In addition to the business voice, SMCC represents the municipalities in Christian County. Some of our communities have been successful in passing a similar measure locally, others have not. However, the need for such a measure continues to magnify. “Online shopping’s share of total retail sales has been increasing approximately one percentage point per year, but a recent UBS analysis predicted that COVID-19 will immediately increase that share from 15 percent to 25 percent – a decade of change concentrated in several months.” (Article: The Pandemic Will Change American Retail Forever.) Furthermore, “According to e-commerce statistics for 2020, 95 percent of retail sales are expected to be made via the internet by 2040.” (International Economic Development Council: Restore Your Economy.) I reject any sentiment that this is a new tax placed on the citizens. Our sales tax rates were voted upon and established based on needs that were valued by voters across the state of Missouri. I don’t recall ever casting a ballot on whether those dollars should start leaving our communities with the innovation of e-commerce. As I’ve gained experience in the industry of economic development and reflected on my rural beginnings I’ve realized that if your community cannot re-invest in itself and if the businesses do not maintain relevancy your community is at risk. That same logic can be applied to our state. I love Missouri enough to see it recapture the funds that are being lost to this new innovation. I believe in the power of our businesses, citizens, and leaders to make sound decisions with those revenues. I thank you for your consideration of my thoughts and am happy to answer any questions you may have. Respectfully Submitted - Andrea Sitzes, President & CEO Show Me Christian County.

My name is Chris Moody and I am a registered lobbyist for MCTA - The Missouri Internet and Television Association. During the last week of the 2020 legislative session, while the Senate was debating internet use tax legislation (Wayfair) legislation on the floor, a bipartisan compromise was worked out that would have reduced the video service franchise fee by half over a period of five years, while also authorizing the collection of internet use tax. These reforms would modernize Missouri's tax policy to ensure a level playing field and put an end to Missouri's tax policies having an impact on the choices consumers make. MCTA is committed to reforming Missouri's tax structure both with respect to video service franchise fees and internet use taxes.

Our brick and mortar businesses are vital to the economic viability of our communities and should not be at a competitive disadvantage to out of state internet sellers who don't have to collect the same sales and use taxes as they do. Theses are taxes approved by local citizens to provide funding for roads,bridges, jails,law enforcement, etc. that should be collected and properly remitted by ALL sellers in our counties. All state-based sectors of retail implore you to please work through your differences and give us equity with remote Internet retailers that do not employ Missourians or fund our infrastructure, first responders and schools. We have been waiting for decades to be fairly treated. If you have an Internet retail business based in Missouri, you have to collect taxes throughout the nation as well as Missouri while your remote competitors do not have to collect Missouri's use tax and help keep our economy growing. Tire dealers have tremendous costs to maintain a shop while their remote Internet competitor has little cost and does not have to collect the use tax, the tire tax or environmental fees to deal with waste tires. Even grocers are losing business to remote food sellers today. Covid-19 has only made it harder on Missouri based businesses. Please help us compete fairly.

Support extension of local use tax to out of state vendors in accordance with Wayfair. Sales tax is a primary revenue source for local government that is declining in recent years due in large part to the continuing growth of on-line sales. While consumer spending has been trending toward on-line sales, the pandemic has accelerated that spiral with Des Peres experiencing a nearly 30% decline in sales tax revenues in 2020. At the same time, service demand for police, fire, ems, streets, sanitation services continues unabated. On-line sales are delivered using public streets and the police are involved for on-line fraud and theft. Long term fiscal sustainability requires that we expand our tax structure to capture on-line sales to support local services. In addition, an on-line tax levies the playing field for our local merchants -especially small business who are most impacted by high volume on-line retailers. Generally oppose tying the local use tax to a reduction in gross receipts revenues for video services.

Chairman Wallingford and members of the House Committee on Ways and Means: On behalf of the Springfield Area Chamber of Commerce and our over 1500-member businesses, please accept this letter of support for House Bill 644. Missouri is one of only two states that lacks laws that require online sellers to charge sales tax. Enacting a mechanism to collect these dollars would not be a new tax - this is simply money that the state is already owed. We have heard from members of our business community that have been impacted negatively by the loss of business to online competitors, especially during the ongoing pandemic where many increased their online purchasing. This is about fairness and opportunity for our state's small businesses; passing HB 644 would provide a significant opportunity to create fairness between online sellers and Missouri's brick and mortar businesses. Additionally, given the wide range of projections that an online sales tax is anticipated to generate, we encourage the legislature to enact a mechanism for online sales tax without a simultaneous tax cut. This revenue could be used for strategic investments our state desperately needs to remain competitive in areas like workforce development, transportation and more. Delaying a corresponding tax cut would give the state time to see the amount of funds that would actually be generated and make a better-informed decision about a corresponding cut at a later date. Thank you for your consideration and commitment to the state. Sincerely, Matt Morrow President and CEO Springfield Area Chamber of Commerce 202 S John Q Hammons Parkway Springfield, MO 65806
